

PEPPER SPRAY ANALYSIS CONCLUSIONS

1. The actuator was in working condition and the canister was found to contain the following amount of pepper solution: ____ . This amount was ____ percent of the amount stated on the label for a full canister.
2. The actuator was in working condition but the canister did not have sufficient propellant to empty all the contents. The following amount of pepper solution was obtained: ____ . This amount was ____ percent of the amount stated on the label for a full canister.
3. The actuator was not in working condition; therefore, no qualitative or quantitative analysis could be performed.